You will visit the Upper Town, Independence Square, Independence Avenue and much more. It feels like the world first learned about the word “rhombicuboctahedron” after the construction of the national library of Belarus. With 18 square and 8 triangular faces, this eccentric geometric shape has been turning heads since the library's construction. It symbolizes the value of knowledge and the infinity of the perceptible world. At night the library is illuminated and shows various displays. Due to its unusual shape and bright illumination, the library has almost become one of the key attractions in Minsk.
